

Bio – Tim Sherry

Tim Sherry serves as the Sustainability Technical Manager for Hohenstein Institute America. In this role, he works with brands and suppliers to improve the sustainability and performance of their products.

Prior to joining Hohenstein in 2023, Tim managed outlet retail projects for Columbia Sportswear and ran operations and sustainability messaging for a startup backpack brand.

Tim holds an MS in sports product management from University of Oregon and BS and MS degrees in earth and planetary science from UC Santa Cruz and McGill University.